

Exopolis is hiring a Creative Director for the Austin Office.

Feb 14, 2011

Exopolis is a creative agency with a penchant for technology.

Exopolis is a company of thinkers and doers with bases in New York, Los Angeles, and Austin. We view every challenge as unique, so every project has a unique solution – with custom teams, technology, and tactics. It's about disciplined process and freeform inspiration coming together. It's about messaging that resonates, in all the places consumers and brands meet. It's about transmedia awesomeness.

Contact
jobs@exopolis.com

Why would you want to work at Exopolis?

Our clients come to us exclusively for out of the ordinary solutions – creative campaigns that span all media platforms and make entertaining and innovative use of technology. Every engagement is unique and we look at each project as a chance to do something truly special. You'll have the opportunity to collaborate everyday with industry pioneers, who have been carefully chosen for their fearlessness, their professionalism, their creativity, and their niceness. We're super serious about the quality of our work, but believe that our good time is an essential part of our methodology.

We also offer all full-time employees pretty awesome benefits packages including medical, dental, vision and 401k.

Position Description

Exopolis is looking for phenomenally talented multi-disciplinary creative director who can, among many other things, help us think of a better term that multi-disciplinary. We're looking for someone comfortable in the space where technology and creativity come together, with experience working in multiple mediums. Our new creative director will be creatively fearless, willing to freak the world out a little bit, and guide our clients into their brave new world.

As creative director you will help to transform our clients often complicated creative challenges into elegantly uncomplicated solutions. Through strong concepts and solid creative direction, you will lead teams of internal and external creative minds to thoughtful executions across all media.

Responsibilities Include:

- working with clients to uncover their unique opportunities
- contributing to marketing and digital strategy
- creating and articulating concepts and clear creative direction
- directly executing on creative concepts
- inspiring team members to provide innovative creative solutions
- engaging clients and becoming a trusted creative lead

EXOPOLIS

NEW YORK LOS ANGELES CHICAGO AUSTIN

Exopolis is hiring a Creative Director in the Austin Office

- managing multiple projects within different stages of the process
- staying up to date on innovate uses of technology and applying that to our client's unique situations

Requirements:

- exhibit strong presentation skills, internally and externally
- have 6 - 8+ years in senior level creative position, preferably from art director or designer background
- have a kick-ass cross platform portfolio
- know how to juggle
- be a master at creative suite
- be addicted to the pleasure of landing on that perfect idea